An eight page booklet was created for the Alianza de las Americas, a Denver Art Museum support group, for their annual fund raiser. The group focuses on Spanish Colonial Arts and so the Martinez House in Taos was chosen as the subject. The cover image is a 5 color woodblock. All the type and line illustrations were printed as serigraph. The final image "Archway" was printed on an Ecuadorian paper with an oil based ink. The booklet was saddle stitched with a brown cord. The cover paper is a Japanese hand-made paper dating from 1910. .
